RMKS/1. Pre-Mobilization Medical Screening for Navy Reserve Component Sailors must be completed in accordance with references (a) through (l).

2. Pre-Mobilization blood draws for fasting lipids, fasting blood glucose, and/or hemoglobin A1C are not required for every service member prior to mobilization.

3. Service members over age 40 with a known diagnosis of Hyperlipidemia, Diabetes Mellitus, or other known cardiac disease, such as Coronary Artery Disease, Heart Failure or Myocardial Infarction, require results of fasting lipid blood test. Results must be within 90 days of R## to calculate the 10-year Atherosclerotic Cardiovascular Disease risk percentage.

4. Service members with a known diagnosis of Diabetes Mellitus must have results of fasting blood glucose and hemoglobin A1C within 90 days of R## to determine whether the member is stable to proceed to RC2. An additional fasting blood glucose and hemoglobin A1C must be drawn within 90 days of ready load date.

5. A service member's lack of compliance with United States Preventative Task Forces Screening Guidelines is not a reason to perform pre-deployment blood test screening, unless required for theater entry by the Combatant Commander.

6. If a clinical indication is present to draw fasting lipids, hemoglobin A1C, or fasting blood glucose beyond what is specifically mentioned above and the results are abnormal, a waiver must be routed to the gaining combatant commander if the results are obtained within 150 days of ready load date. If the results are obtained more than 150 days of ready load date, the Regional Medical Director or Adaptive Mobilization Medical Officer will determine if the member is stable to proceed to RC2. The medical waiver authority will determine whether the service member can mobilize.
